Dear Mr. Newman,

I am writing to ask if you would consider authenticating several pieces of Colonial Currency. I was referred to you by Coin World magazine. If you would rather not do the evaluation, is there someone you would recommend?

Enclosed is a copy of one of the pieces of Colonial Currency.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Best Regards,

Dave Christner

Mr. Christner —
I will be glad to authenticate any you have of Colonial paper money. The value is given in my book entitled "The Early Paper Money of America" (1990 edition) but pieces have risen some since then.
Please send your pieces
if you wish me to check them. Keep a photocopy. Send return postage.

Dear Mr. Newman,

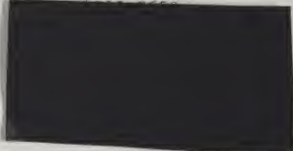

Enclosed are five Colonial Currency pieces. Would you please check them for authenticity and return them to me by return mail. Please send me a statement for your services rendered.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Best Regards,

Dear Mr. Christner:

I am sorry to advise you that the five pieces appearing to be American Colonial paper money are all photo reproductions made on fake antique vellum paper. You will observe that none of the signatures are in real ink. These were commonly sold in souvenir stores, etc. beginning about 30 years ago.

The pieces are returned herewith. They are not worth registering. You may deduct the $7.00 as a gift to this organization, which is a charitable corporation.

Better luck next find.

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman
